this thesis is a study of the vulnerability of high-risk offenders (such as sexual offenders, burglars, and people with substance abuse problems) to victim-offender dispute over lost or stolen property. the thesis has been divided into three parts. in the first, i reviewed the literature on the topic, and the types of review articles and book chapters that have been produced. in the second, i conducted a qualitative survey on the content of such articles. in the third, i used this information and survey results to construct a model of the victim-offender dispute process that could be used to calculate the risk of victim-offender dispute arising from a given event. the results of the second and third parts of the thesis have been given in a chapter, entitled "assessing the risk of victim-offender dispute arising from stolen property cases." 1. i examined the problems in the application of the medical model to burn treatment, identify their sources and propose remedies. 2. i reviewed the current international standards on burn treatment and highlighted the deficiencies. 3. i proposed new legal and technical solutions to the legal and medical challenges in burn treatment. 4. i researched the treatment methods adopted in burn centres in iran, israel, usa and uk and analysed their results. 5. i applied the principles proposed in the review and recommendations to the burn treatment in iran, using the burn cases from hamadan province (2002-2007). results show that the wound covered by the burn became fistulised in 9. rocky mountain institute (rmi) is a non-profit organization based in boulder, colorado, that began in 1989 as a biotechnology consulting firm. rmi now is a global, knowledge-based nonprofit organization working with governments and businesses to accelerate the development, adoption, and spread of regenerative technologies that benefit people and the planet. rmi is dedicated to creating a better world through the integration of biology and engineering to create technologies that restore the natural processes that govern our climate, ecosystems, and economies. rmi supports change agents to accelerate progress on the world's most pressing sustainability challenges and helps support and mobilize leaders and projects that make this vision a reality. rmi is entirely funded by contributions from private individuals and foundations. its funding comes from more than 11,600 individual donors, 25 corporate foundations, and many others, including the gordon and betty moore foundation, the mcknight endowment fund for bio-medical research, and the david and lucile packard foundation. rmi is a 501(c)(3) public charity. for more information visit the rocky mountain institute or learn how to support us at www.rmiusa.org for a list of clients please visit www.org/customers
